

Boxer Hips and Breeding

A general recommendation is not to breed with "D" and "E" hips. Another recommendation is:

- A can be bred to: A, B, C
- B should only be bred to: A, B
- C should only be bred to: A
- D and E dogs should not be used for breeding

When hips scores are known, an informed decision can at least be made on the choice of stud dog. We therefore, recommend that the breeders only breed with a male with A1-A1 hips to reduce the chance of the puppies having bad hips, when the female has D or E hips.